

BROUGHT TO YOU BY

We make it worry free. Call today: 419.308.2339

HOME

ABOUT

CONTACT

CAMPUS

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

COMMUNITY VOICES

EDUCATION

ENVIRONMENT

OBITUARIES

BLACK SWAMP ARTS FESTIVAL

ADVERTISE

MEMBERSHIP

COMMUNITY OPINION

HOT TOPICS JANUARY 28, 2017 | KESHA AND THE CREEPIES ELECTRIFY CROWD IN SEARCH ...

HOME

ARTS AND ENTERTAINMENT

DONATE

Kesha and The Creepies electrify crowd in Bowling Green

TOPICS: Bands4Change Kesha

BGindependentmedia.org is a news source for the Bowling Green, Ohio, area. Access is free, but reporting, writing and managing all take time, money, and hard work. We depend on our readers to sustain our efforts and appreciate your support. For membership information, please access the Membership page from the Main Menu heading above.

It's Okay to Step Away...
but SHAKING IS NEVER AN OPTION!

Report suspected
child abuse and neglect
in Wood County

419-354-9669
Wood County
JFS - Children's Services

NEWS BREAK

Frazer Avenue to be closed for sewer line work

City Council and Planning Commission to meet

Section of Conneaut to close for water project

North Baltimore motorcyclist dies in Saturday crash

Section of East Court closed Jan. 25

POSTED BY: DAVID DUPONT JANUARY 28, 2017

By ANNIE GALLO

Special to BG Independent News

Kesha is back at it again with her band “The Creepies” as she kicked off her first concert of 2017 Friday night at Bowling Green University’s Stroh Center.

Kesha and the Creepies took the stage as a part of the Bands4Change charity concert. By choice of the artist, all proceeds went to the National Eating Disorder Association, Humane Society International and RAINN (Rape, Abuse, Incest National Network).

Heringhaus EST. 1908
FURNITURE and Decorating Gallery

WINTER SALE! PRICES SLASHED!

991 South Main Street Bowling Green Ohio 43402
419-352-8147 www.heringhausbg.com

Non-Emergency Transportation
To Medical and Mental Health Appointments

WOOD COUNTY
NETPIUS

1.844.353.6779
Monday-Friday 8am-4pm

COMMUNITY VOICES

Community Voices is our section for Bowling Green

Though she has been struggling with a legal battle for the past two years, that did not stop her from performing a kickass show and providing support to those struggling with accepting the new president. In between performing rock renditions of older songs, Kesha talked about how she will fight for human rights even if our new president doesn't.

"I'm with you, I'm standing beside you, I'm standing behind you, and we will not ever give up," Kesha said.

After speaking those words her band started to play "Your Love Is My Drug." She belted out all the lyrics enthusiastically as her boyfriend Brad Ashenfelter danced around her with a gay pride flag.

From singing old songs like "Tik Tok" to newer songs like "Timber" Kesha gave it her all on stage and showed fans a different side of her.

The most heartbreaking, but captivating moment of the concert was when Kesha sang a cover of the song "You Don't Own Me" by Leslie Gore. With every word that came out of her mouth you could feel her vulnerability and the pain she has been going through.

She told the crowd Friday she has 72 newly recorded songs she cannot wait to release and she said she is fighting every day to give her fans new music.

"I know I was put on Earth to do this with you guys and I will not let that get fg taken away from me," she said.

After attending a Kesha and The Creepies concert it is clear to see that Kesha has not only the talent, but the attitude and positivity to inspire many people.

Whether music fans like pop or rock, Kesha's talent is undeniable after witnessing her sing these songs in such a bold new way. Kesha and The Creepies' renditions have enough of everything to ensure everyone has a rock and roll, glitter-filled, and empowering experience.

area points of view. It will also be used for information about local programs, city and business developments, BGSU items, and other submitted stories deemed to be of interest to our readers. Opinions represented here do not necessarily reflect those of BG Independent News and no endorsement is implied.

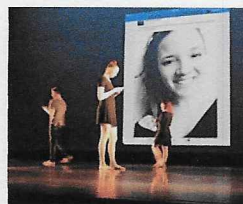

JANUARY 27,
2017

Greek accordion
virtuoso
Panagiotis
Andreoglou
in residence at BGSU

JANUARY 27,
2017

County historical museum to open WWI exhibit

JANUARY 26,
2017

BGSU
Dance Program showcases local choreograph y in concert,
Jan. 27 &
28